A New Home Cure That Anyone Can Use Without Operation, Pain, Danger or Loss of Time.

I have a new Method that cures rupture and I want you to use it at my expense. I am not trying to sell you a Truss, but offer you a cure that stays cured and ends all truss-wearing and danger of strangulation forever.

No matter whether you have a single, double or navel rupture or one following an operation, my Method is an absolute cure. No matter what your age, how long your work, my Method will certainly cure you. I especially want to send it free to those apparently hopeless cases where all forms of Trusses, treatments and operations have failed. I want to show everyone at my own expense, that my Method will end all rupture suffering and truss-wearing for all time. This means better health, increased physical ability and longer life. My free offer is too important to neglect a single day. Write now and begin your cure at once. Send no money. Simply mail coupon below. Do it to-day.

DEMAND MADE BY TAXPAYERS

To Transfer Central Ave. Work to This End

After a Warm Discussion, Everybody Declares Intention of Working for Completion of the Macadam Boulevard.

A resolution demanding that the trustees of the Central avenue special district, upon completion of two and five-eighths miles of boulevard now practically finished at the upper end, transfer the work to the end nearest the city and continue from the lower end until the available funds are exhausted, was passed last night at a meeting of the taxpayers of the district, held in the Osborn school house.

At times the discussion grew a little acrimonious, and once or twice direct charges of falsehood were made, but before the meeting was over general good feeling prevailed. The hand of good fellowship was extended and all expressed a determination to immediately set their shoulders to the wheel and raise money to complete the boulevard from the McDowell road to the Arizona canal.

Over sixty taxpayers were present, but several did not vote upon the resolution, which was offered by L. H. Chalmers. The vote stood 25 to 14.

The meeting was called at the instigation of the "south-enders," as those living south of the Grand canal and in favor of having the work transferred to the lower end, are called. It had no legal status and the trustees are therefore not legally bound to pay any attention to the resolution. Dwight B. Heard, one of the trustees, led the discussion for the south end, and will certainly be in favor of acting upon the demand made therein. What E. M. Lamson and Fred Woolsey, the other two trustees, will do, is uncertain. They have always been with the north end.

Dr. H. H. Stone was made chairman of the meeting and George Lily secretary. Mr. Heard was the first speaker. He stated that by the middle of next week two and five-eighths miles at the upper end of Central avenue would be completed and that the other trustees seem determined to keep on building from north to south. The district, he said, is six and seven-eighths miles long. That portion above the Grand canal will pay, under the present arrangement, only 23.9 per cent of the total money raised for boulevard purposes, though bonding the district for $30,000, while that portion on the south side of the Grand will pay 78.1 per cent. The north five-eighths pays but 2.1 per cent and the next three miles 1-3 per cent. This is on a basis of assessed valuation.

The sum of $31,900 was paid for the bonds. The first year of the existence of the special district, $1,800 was secured by taxation for maintenance purposes. Last year the taxes rose to $2,400 and this year will reach $3,000. When the north two and five-eighths miles are complete, $21,263.91 will have been expended, leaving approximately $12,600 in the treasury. The cost of constructing the road is $7,000 a mile, and when all the money now on hand is expended about two miles of the boulevard will remain uncompleted. The deficit will be about $14,000.

Mr. Heard outlined a plan which he had put up to the other trustees some time before. This was to ask the government for $5,000 because of the half of mile which the Indian school has on one side of Central avenue, that property not being subject to taxation. Superintendent C. W. Goodman of the school had offered to use all his influence to secure the appropriation. Another part of the plan was to ask the owners of all land north of the Grand to contribute $6 per acre in addition to what they will pay toward paying off the bonds. The people of the city would be asked to help and the south end property owners would give what they could. This proposition was turned down by Trustees Lamson and Woolsey. It was a vital part of the discussion last evening.

In the course of his remarks Mr. Heard stated that the quarry from which the rock used in macadamizing the avenue is drawn was owned by W. Murphy, who owns about one-third the land in the district north of the Grand canal. A. W. Gregg, who once held a contract for hauling and crushing the rock, had filed on a mineral claim embracing the quarry, asserted Mr. Heard. After he had given up the contract he had assigned the claim to creditors who held his note for what he owed on a rock crusher he had bought. Recently the new owners of the quarry served notice on the trustees to cease taking rock therefrom. Mr. Murphy had then purchased the quarry.

Full appreciation was expressed by Mr. Heard of the efficient services of C. C. Sherwood, the United States engineer sent here by the government's highway board to assist in the building of the road.

W. J. Murphy was asked to explain how he had happened to purchase the quarry. He declared that he did so in order that the road building might not be held up. He would continue to permit rock to be quarried for $5 a day, the sum charged by the Gregg creditors before they decided that they wanted to conserve every bit of the rock they controlled.

in good shape. In an impassioned address he told how he had gone to the trustees and offered to raise enough money by subscription from automobile owners and others to complete the boulevard only to have his offer rejected. He declared that a boulevard at the south end would benefit a larger number of taxpayers, and taxpayers in paying much the larger share of the cost of a boulevard out in the rural districts at the north end. To build from the canal to the city was "undemocratic, unrepresentative and un-American."

"Not a dollar more of my money do they get until they start building from the logical place to begin toward the place the boulevard should logically end," declared Mr. Chalmers.

Mr. Heard read a petition he presented to the board, signed by a number of taxpayers, asking that the work be transferred to the south end. He had voted for it, but had been overruled by his associates.

Walter Bennett made another address in behalf of the south-end cause. As an attorney and a taxpayer he advocated the immediate transfer of work to the end nearest the city. George M. Halm replied for the north end and Mr. Murphy made a statement in defense of Contractor Gregg, who had taken a contract that cost much more to fulfill than he had ever dreamed of. His action in filing on the quarry, Mr. Murphy declared, was only natural and served to protect the district's source of rock supply. He had bought the quarry for $860 and was willing to sell it to the district for half that sum.

Mr. Murphy said that it was more economical to build from the north end because it costs less than half to haul over macadam road than it costs to haul over common dirt highway. He also paid a tribute to Trustee Lamson, who was ill and unable to attend. Any criticism of Major Lamson, he asserted, was very unjust and showed the critic uninformed upon the prodigious amount of work the major has done on behalf of the district.

Trustee Heard came right back at Mr. Murphy, accepting his offer to sell the quarry for half what it cost and announcing his intention of donating it to the district. This declaration was received with a storm of applause.

Continuing, the trustee asked Mr. Murphy if he was willing to contribute $6 for each acre of his holdings in Orangewood. Nearly all the other property owners north of the Grand, said the speaker, were willing to contribute on that basis. "Then you'll only be paying one-third as much as we're paying at this end," declared Mr. Heard.

At this point Mr. Chalmers offered his resolution, which was couched in gentle language. "Unjust" and "unfair" were used to describe the conduct of the trustees in persisting to build from the north end. They were not requested to transfer the work to the south end, but it was "demanded" that they do so.

There ensued a general discussion. Upon motion of General A. J. Sampson, speakers were limited to five minutes each. Much of the discussion concerned an alleged agreement on the part of the trustees to build an experimental piece of road next to the Arizona canal and then begin at the McDowell road to work northward. Mr. Murphy said that neither he nor anyone else on the north end ever heard of the agreement. It was established that this agreement was got a matter of record, but L. H. Chalmers declared that when the trustees were elected there was an implied agreement that they would serve the district in such a way as would benefit the greatest number of people. General Sampson said it would be easier to raise money to bridge a hiatus in the middle of the boulevard than to complete it at one end.

When the question was put it was decided by a standing vote. The north-end vote was not as strong as the noise that they had made earlier in the evening had indicated it would be. The south-enders had twenty-eight votes, just twice as many as their opponents. Mr. Heard then made a final talk, declaring that no matter what disagreement he and Mr. Murphy may have had they were all over and he wanted to work in harmony with all the people from the north end. Mr. Murphy answered in kind, taking his defeat philosophically. He was in favor of taking immediate steps to raise the necessary money and offered to contribute twice as much as Mr. Heard would name as his own contribution. It was decided, however, that it would be best to leave the matter of raising money until after the trustees have acted upon the resolution.
